Internal Funding Competitions for Faculty

Research Incentive

Funding levels raised in this year's competition.

This year's deadline for the Research Incentive Program is 5:00 pm, Monday, February 24, 2003. The purpose of the Research Incentive program is to support research and other scholarly activity by the University faculty within the constraints of available resources. The competitive program consists of the following two components:

Research Initiation

Grants are intended to provide seed funds for new research efforts likely to attract external funding. Grant budgets are limited to $10,000. Recently appointed faculty and those without significant external funding are given priority.

Professional Development Grants are intended for more general and diverse scholarly activities and professional renewal. Grant budgets are limited to $3,000.

Copies of guidelines and application forms for both the Research Initiation Grant and Professional Development Grants are available online

Research Challenge

A Request for Proposals for the Research Challenge Major Collaboration Grant Program has been issued for this year's competition.

The purpose of this program is to provide funding to encourage the formation of collaborative research partnerships and the submission of collaborative proposals for major external grants and contracts. Copies of the application forms and instructions are available online at <http://www.wright.edu/rsp/>

www.wright.edu/rsp/InternalProgs/RC\_Collab\_Guide.doc. The deadline for receipt of proposals is March 17, 2003.

The Major Collaboration Grant Program is supported by Research Challenge funds received from the Ohio Board of Regents that are allocated among universities on the basis of their success in generating external research support in the previous biennium.

A Technology Transfer Office within RSP!

The Office of Research and Sponsored Programs would like to welcome on board Isabelle Gorrillot, Wright State's new Associate Director for Technology Transfer.

She will be an important focal point for our faculty and students involved in research and discoveries. Isabelle earned a post-doctoral degree in Technology Transfer and has accumulated over ten years of experience in business development and technology transfer, both within the industry and as a consultant.

When asked why she was attracted to WSU, Isabelle replied, "Wright State University has established excellent credibility in cutting edge scientific areas, such as bioinformatics. The University also benefits from a huge critical mass of researchers and research institutions within a 200 miles radius. I am therefore excited to join Wright State University in this highly interactive and diversified capacity and capitalize on the University's outstanding research to build a strong patent portfolio and generate revenues, especially through licensing and invention commercialization."

"Technology Transfer" is the multi-step, multi-faceted process of taking inventions all the way from conception to commercialization. This process therefore

Notes from the Director

For the past several months, I have been serving on a planning committee that is putting together a regional conference on research in the life sciences and the economic benefits thereof. The "region" in this case includes southern Ohio and northern Kentucky. The planning committee includes representatives from Wright State, University of Cincinnati, University of Kentucky, and University of Louisville, in addition to the economic development organizations in each city.

The conference will examine current national trends in the commercialization of university technologies, and how they can be leveraged to stimulate the development of a nationally-recognized regional "Knowledge Economy." It will include presentations from national speakers on pre-commercialization and networking partnership strategies. Also, eight facilitated scientific sessions will focus on opportunities for synergistic collaborations among researchers, institutions, and industry. So it is a pretty large undertaking, and I am glad Wright State was invited to participate.

Dan Krane from the Department of Biological Sciences will be speaking on the benefits of commercialization of research—he recently began his own startup company based on technology developed at Wright State. Robert Fyffe, Associate Dean for Research Affairs in the School of Medicine, will be leading a session on neuroscience. Oscar Garcia, Chair of Computer Science, is heading up a session on bioinformatics. We will also have panelists at six other scientific sessions: Steven Berberich (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology), Allen Burton (Institute for Environmental Quality), Mariana Morris (Pharmacology and Toxicology), Roger Siervogel (Community Health), Hal Stills (Laboratory Animal Resources), and Dawn Wooley (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology).

The conference dates are March 10-11 and the registration form is found at http://www.ovalsgroup.org/OVALS\_brochure.pdf. Hope to see you there!

obviously requires one essential and mandatory component – inventions. As Isabelle puts it, "The equation is actually quite simple: no invention, no transfer, no commercialization." Isabelle therefore welcomes researchers with one, or better yet, several inventions to disclose.

Another essential aspect of Technology Transfer consists in securing Intellectual Property protection. The "novelty provision," as one of the requirements for patentability, makes it important to be very cautious about what to disclose about a technology and when to disclose it, including before formal disclosure to the Technology Transfer Office. Timing is key!

Should you have questions or concerns about inventions—their protection, their commercialization, suggestions for licensees, disclosure of results at a seminar or conference, or anything else pertaining to technology transfer—or if you have any suggestions to increase the efficiency of the Technology Transfer Office, please feel free to call Isabelle at 775-2651, or stop by her office located at 240 University Hall.

Isabelle's e-mail address is isabelle.gorrillot@wright.edu. The direct URL for the Technology Transfer web page is www.wright.edu/techtransfer. Finally, Isabelle would greatly appreciate receiving any seminar information from your department. So, please add her to your mailing list.

Congratulations!

We are pleased to announce the selection of awardees of the Research Challenge Early Start/Augmentation program. Of 32 proposals submitted, 11 projects were funded for a total of $153,915. The primary objective of the Research Challenge program is to furnish seed funding to faculty in order to produce additional sponsored research. Congratulations to those receiving an award (listed below) from the October 2002 call for applications.

Maher S. Amer	ECS	Acquisition of Automated Excitation Laser Changer	$9,506
Thomas L. Brown	SOM	Molecular Mechanisms of TGFB Medicated Gene Expression in Apoptosis	$20,000

Quick Form for Online CV

Using the information already in your COS Expertise profile, you can automatically create a curriculum vitae in a popular word processing package. Simply designate the pieces of information, such as qualifications and publications, which are appropriate for the particular version of the CV, and in seconds, (without any rekeying, cutting, or pasting) the system immediately creates a customized CV. Quick Form for Online CV is available to all WSU faculty and staff directly from their COS Workbench.

If you have not registered with Community of Science, go to <http://login.cos.com> to get your free username and password that will enable you to initiate funding searches and publish your expertise profile in the COS database. For more information or assistance in using the database, please contact Jackie Frederick, the campus liaison, at ext. 2664 or at jackie.frederick@wright.edu.

Post-Award NEWS

RSP will be offering workshops (details below) to assist faculty and staff in the management of their restricted external project accounts. These sessions are overviews of post-award administration that include discussions of your grant's monthly Financial Accounting System (FAS) statements, allowable/unallowable expenses, billing procedures, effort reporting, cost sharing, and audits. This is an excellent opportunity for the person overseeing the financial aspect of your grants to get the scoop on proper management. Please call ext. 1100 to register.

A Workshop to Find Funding Opportunities

A workshop that will give participants an opportunity to become acquainted with the electronic funding databases and expertise profiles available to them through the RSP web site will be held on Wednesday, February 19, 2003 from noon to 1 p.m. in room 047 Millett Hall. The focus of this workshop is a hands-on demonstration that will show you how to use the funding databases for matching research ideas with potential sponsors and how to use the expertise profiles for promoting your research and finding collaborators. These search and promotion tools are available to members of the WSU community at no cost and can be valuable aids to successful grant submissions.

Registration is limited to the first 15 participants so that everyone is assured of access to a computer. We ask that those wishing to attend please register by February 14, 2003. For additional information or to register, please contact Jackie Frederick by return email at
